" It were a bliss to die!" - HEMANS. " It were a bliss to die!" Oh! yes, a bliss to die! A bliss to fold the weary hand in rest That fears no starting from its visions blest-No hurried springing to the desperate strife That thickens o'er the battle-field of life, Where fearful toil and tug and strain

Are only rumous and vain, And all with dark defeat is wildly rife: " It were a blfss to die!" Oh! yes, a bliss to die!

A bliss to close the aching eye in sleep That knows no waking from its slumber deep No painful rousing from its sweet repose,

To watch in vain through throughg cares and woes For one faint gleam of wished-for light, Whose flush the gloom of life's long night At last in starry dawn might sweetly close

" It were a bliss to die!"

Oh! yes, a bluss to die!

A bijss to hush the heart in calm repose, O'er whose soft gilence never, never flows . Life's troublous tide of fierce unrest; and, more Yes, more !- along whose soft and dreamy shore No rocking tempest ever wakes, No bitter wave of sorrow breaks, Breach of Promise of Marriage.

But heavenly calm reigns ever, ever more

At the York assizes, on Friday, Hannah Lucas sued William Blakey. The declaration stated that the defendant promised to marry the plaintiff, and that he broke his promise case. The plaintiff was a young woman, twenty-two years of age, and of considerable personal attractions. She resides at Lockwood, near Hud-Huddersfield. In the spring of 1849 Mrs. Lucas resided in Huddersfield, and it was then that the defendant first began to pay attention to the on making some inquiry as to his character, she granted it, the defendant declaring he was sincere, and that, in seeking a wife, he did not want of a fortune, and he had more than once declined the opportunity of marrying with a fortune. He continued to pay his addresses to the plaintiff from May, 1849, down to November in last year; and in the latter month he, in a manner that appeared to aggravate the character of his conduct and its injustice, without making any communication whatever to the plaintiff, or her mother, or any member of her family, contracted marwith a Miss Lister, and he did not disclose The defendant had written several letters to the plaintiff, the first of which was dated June 15,

"Dearest Hannah: You will think I have for 'Absence makes the heart grow fonder !

[Laughter.] In another letter he wrote: "Never traveller than your letter, which I received on Sunday last, was to me. As I traced the characters, I could almost imagine that I heard your sound of which still echoes in my ears like distant music." [Loud laughter.]

In a third letter the defendant stated that the plaintiff was dearer to him than his own existence, and signed himself "Your affectionate found that he could not do justice to his subject in prose, and therefore he resorted to the sublimities of poetry. He then addressed her in the following acrostic:

jury to discriminate and give such damages as stand by our friends, to make them many, to were proper in this case. Mr. Sergeant Wilkins, in his address to the jury, said he was not going for one moment to cast any aspersions either on conciliate no bigot, to flatter no money-worship-the plaintiff or her mother. He admitted there per, to bow before no official upstart, to sanction could be no doubt the defendant had behaved ill- no public or private wrong, and in general to live had broken his promise—and the plaintiff was entitled to a verdict. But what were the circumstances? Why, the defendant, at 22 years of age, was proved to have fallen over head and love at the first moment; and he would [Laughter.] He had done wrong, but loved her, breaks out in a rhapsody ...

"My lady fair, I do deciare.

[roars of laughter]—and all that sort of thing.
Let the jury then judge of the extent of the loss she had sustained, and give such damages as twelve honest men ought to give. The learned judge summed up, telling the jury the only question was how much he ought to pay for this breach of promise. Verdict for the plaintiff—damages, £45.—English paper.

METROPOLITAN CAVALRY.—At a meeting of this new corps, held on Tuesday evening, the following named gentlemen were elected officers, namely: B. B. French, captain; C. W. THE DAILY AMERICAN TELEGRAPH.

OUR SECOND YEAR!

One year ago this day was issued the first number of the American Telegraph. We were then assured by many intelligent citizens of Washington that it had already been fully demonstrated that such a paper could not live here, and that ours could not exist three months; while cautious men of business assured us that if we should succeed in sustaining it, then they would give us their support! The predictions of the former have proved baseless-the wish that was father to the thought has not been realized; and the promises of the latter have not been redeemed.

Cut off from all hopes of the kind of patronage on which other papers of this city fatten-encountering the overwhelming competition of Washington papers supported by the government patronage, and the newspapers of Baltimore, that derive their support from a commercial and manufacturing population of one hundred and eighty thousand persons-proscribed in official placesavoided by timid men in office-opposed by the concerted influence of a portion of a respectable religious communion, upon a pretext entirely baseless-without the influence in the community of connexions and friends to defend us from the adroit opposition of interested competitors,-we have yet maintained our position, and to-day stand before our fellow-citizens pre pared to serve them faithfully, fearlessly, and independently. We have no favors to ask. We have respect another woman. Defendant pleaded that he had and good-will toward the people of this communever promised at all. Mr. Atherton stated the nity, and intend to merit theirs in return. But we shall not do this by flattering their follies, or appealing to their sympathies. When such a dersfield, with her mother, who is the widow of course as this becomes necessary to insure suc-Mr. Lucas, a house-painter. The plaintiff is a cess, we shall not be ashamed to fail. But until milliner, and the defendant is a cloth-finisher at it does, our path shall lie onward and upward. We will neither fail nor falter.

Now for a few familiar words. Why do we not sell our paper as cheap as the Baltimore papers He applied to Mrs. Lucas for her consent; and, are sold? is the frequent question. We reply, Because we are not in Baltimore-because a com mercial city of one hundred and eighty thousand a slave, but a companion. He was not in quest people can yield an amount of advertising custom not to be obtained in a community of forty thousand people who do their shopping in Balti more!

The Baltimore papers contain Baltimore advertisements; and the people of Washington compile their memoranda from such advertisements, send their orders to Baltimere, obtain their goods there, and thus gotten you altogether, but I assure you, love, I Baltimore, obtain their goods there, and thus have not; for with the poet, I can truly exclaim, make our own storckeepers pay a well-merited

These were specimens of the advertisements of Washington business peo-defendant's letters in prose; but he afterwards ple, should preserve us from the temptation of sending to Baltimore for those commodities which can as well be obtained in Washington. It was with special reference to this that we commenced an afternoon paper. We knew the advantages offered by the penny press of Baltimore-we appreciated them fully; we did not wish to come in conflict with them. We intended not to cross the path of those journals; and we believed our purposes would be approved by our own people.

By many they have; but not by all. So far from this, we seriously doubt (call it egotism if you will!) that there is another man in Washing-[Laughter.] After this the defendant returned ton who would have clung to an enterprise as to prose again, and then he broke out in another the writer of this has adhered to that upon which he had embarked-laboring without present recompense, and with but feeble hope for the future; and even, from bitter necessity, submitting to a transitory public misapprehension of his true position in particulars of the most serious moment.

But away with the past. The present around us, and the prospect before, are what now concern us. We have no revenges-no regrets. We have no enemies that we know of, and care not a [Roars of laughter.] He contended that this dime for any that are unknown. We intend to ras a case for damages, and called upon the labor on, to improve with increasing means, to stifle no sentiment, to sacrifice no opinion, to and die only when our time shall have come.

WILMINGTON BOARDING SCHOOL
FOR BOYS.—This institution is situated in one of the healthiest parts of the city of Wilmington, eatirely beyond the settled portions of the town. The uniform healthfulness of the location may be inferred from the fact that, since the establishment of the School, about twenty-eight years, very few cases of serious indisposition have occurred among the pupils, and not a single death either here, or from diseases contracted while here.
The course of instruction includes, besides the ordinary English branches, Natural Philosophy, Cheaistry, Physiology, History, Rhetoric, the various branches of Mathematics, and the Latin, Greek, and French Languages. Particular attention is, paid to the higher Mathematics and their application to Mochanics and Engineering; the latter and Surveying are taught practically by field operations, with the use of appropriate instruments. Lectures on Natural Philosophy and Chemistry, in which all the important principles are illustrated by experiments, are regularly delivered before the students.

As the object is to make the instruction as thorough and practical as possible, no expense has been spared in providing suitable apparatus. It is believed that, in this respect, the Institution will compare favorably with any similar one in the country. A carefully selected library, of more than one thousand volumes, containing works on the various branches of Librature and Science, furnishes and leader the careful provided works on the various branches of Librature and Science, furnishes thed, July, 1989, BY FREEMAN HUNT, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR. THE Number for December, 1850, completed the twenty-third semi-annual volume. The work has been enlarged since its commencement in July, 1859, and each volume now contains more than seven hundred large detayo pages. A few complete sets of the Magazine may be obtained at the publisher's office, 142 Fulton struct, New York, neatly and substantially bound, for two dollars and a half per volume.

HUNT'S MERCHANTS' MAGAZINE ND COMMERCIAL REVIEW

The following are a few of the many commendatory let-ters received by the editor of the Merchants' Magazine from distinguished statesmen:

Letter from the Hon. Henry Clay. ASHLAND, 20th July, 1849.

Dear Sir: I wish to express to you the gratification I derived on receiving the July number of the Merchants Magazine and Commercial Review, from riewing your portrait in the beginning, and from reading your address to your friends at the end of it. When we feel under obto your friends at the end of it. When we feel under obligations to those who have contributed to our information and amusement, we are naturally desirous to possess all the knowledge of them, of their appearance, of the features of their countenance, and of the character and habits of their mind, which we can acquire. You have placed your numerous readers (at least you have me, if I may not speak for them) under those obligations; and the number of your valuable work now before me, in some degree, satisfies the desire to which I have alluded.

I have become quite familiar with the Magazine and Review, and have no hesitation in expressing my humble opinion that it is eminently entitled to the public regard and support. It collects and arrangee, in good order, a large amount of valuable statistical and other information, highly useful not only to the merchant, but to the statement, to the cultivator of the earth, to the manufacturer, to the mariner, in short, to all classes of the business and reading community.

Entertaining this cuinion, I am clast that it has been and to the mariner, in short, to all classes of the business and reading community.

Entertaining this opinion, I am glad that it has been, and hope that it may continue to be, liberally patronized.

Offering you cordial assurances of my esteem and regard, I am truly your friend and obedient servant.

Freeman Hunt, esq.

Extract of a letter from Hon. Millard Fillmore.

"I have read it (Merchants' Magazine) with a good deal of attention, and have no hesitation in saying that I think it one of the most valuable periodicals that was ever published. To the merchant it seems quite indispensable, and to the statesman and man of general information almost equally desirable. It is a grand repository of useful facts and information, which can be found nowhere so well digested and so accessible as in these numbers. I only regret that I do not own the whole work."

Letter from the Hon. Thomas H. Benton.

WASHINGTON CITY, April 20, 1849.

Mr. Freeman Hunt.—Sir: I owe you many thanks for the opportunities I have had to read the Merchants' Magazine, and have found it in reality to be a magazine, and that well replenished, of all the useful matter which the title would imply, and presented with a fullness and clearness which delights while it instructs. It is, in fact, a merchants' magazine in the large acceptation of the term—merchants who go between nations, whose large operations bring many departments of knowledge, and a view of the state of the world, into daily requisition. But it is not the great merchant only, but the one of more modest, but, nevertheless, of most useful operations—the merchant of the interior also—who will find this magazine to abound with the information the pursuit of his business and the elevation of the mercantile character requires. Nor is its utility at all confined to merchants, but extends to the legislator and diplomatist, and to all who are charged with managing the affairs of the nation. For myself, I have found it most useful to me in my senatorial labors, and have been in the habit for many years of carefully consulting it.

Very respectfully, sir, your obedient servant,

THOMAS H. BENTON.

Letter from Hon. Wm. H. Seward. My Dear Sir: Have the goodness to place my name en your list of subscribers for the Merchants' Magazine. I regard it as an invaluable work for the use of all who would understand not merely commercial operations in this extending country, but the fiscal and commercial questions involved in the administration of the government.

I am, with great respect, your humble servant, Freeman Hunt, esq. WILLIAM H. SEWAED.

No exhibitor of Agricultural Implements at the above named Fair, having received one-half the amount of premiums awarded us on the different kinds of Implements and Machines, it is conclusive evidence that ours were considered the best and most valuable on exhibition.

At the great Fair of the Maryland Institute, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, held in Baltimore in October and November, 1850, the first premium (a heavy Silver Medal) was awarded to Exra Whitman, ir., for the largest and best display of Agricultural Implements. Also first premium (another Silver Medal) for his Improved Wrought iron Railway Horse Power, which was made for exhibition at the World's Fair, in London, in May, 1851.

Our stock this season will be the largest ever offered in this city, and probably the largest in the world, consisting of more than 8,000 Ploughs, 250 Threshing Machines, 1000 Wheat Faus, 1000 Corn Shellers, 500 Straw Cutters, 500 Cultivators, Reaping Machines, Wheat Drills, Corn and Cob Crushers, Burr Stone Mills, Cider Mills, Hay and Cotton Presses, together with every article which a furmer or planter could wish in the prosecution of his juvenities.

COLD SPRING WATER CURE. THIS NEW AND SPLENDID ESTABLISHMENT for the scientific treatment of the various diseases with which the human system is afflicted, is situated about three miles from the city of Buffalo, in a rural spot, and so accessible from all points as to be reached without inconvenience or delay.

A line of omnibuses runs from the steamboat landings in Buffalo to the springs every ten minutes.

The house and grounds are near the extensive and beautiful green-houses and nurseries of the Meszrs. Hodges & Bryants; and the scenery in all directions is unsurpassed, as regards either variety or beauty; embracing points of view, from which may be taken in at a glance the broad expance of Lake Eric, the Niagara flowing majestically towards the Falls, extensive forests, and the "Queen City of the Lakes," with its moving panorama of attemboats and coaseless enterprise.

The water, taken immediately from the celebrated "Cold Spring," is unsurpassed as regards coldness and purity, by any in the United States. The house, recently erected at a cost of about seven thousand dollars, has been fitted up in a neat and elegant style, at considerable extra expense, and is sufficiently capacious to accommodate seventy-five patients.

Connected with the establishment, and constituing one of its attractions, are the fixtures and convenience: It innocent and healtful gymnastic exercises.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The institution is under the general supervision of S. M. Davis, M. D., Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in Central Medical College, and Geo. W. Davis, M. D., formerly of Dansville, N. Y., the resident physician, and is permanently associated with the before mentioned gentleman as counsel, and associate of the medical board of control. And the friends of the establishment deem it a matter of felicitation that the services of Miss Mary M. Taylor, a lady of high medical attainments, who has attended two courses of lectures in the Central Medical College, have been secured, and that female patients can at any time avail themselves of her invaluable aid and counsel.

The steward's department is under the control of a gentleman eminently qualified for that position; and unwearied pains will be taken to have every thing appertaining to the establishment arranged on a plan, and conducted in a way, to ensure the comfort, and promote the health and happiness of all who may wish to avail themselves of its benefits. Baths of all descriptions, adapted to the cure of the various forms of disease, and constructed on a scale not inferior to those of any other establishment in this country.

of the various forms of disease, and constructed on a scale not inferior to those of any other establishment in this country.

An enlightened public sentiment has everywhere repudiated a reckless use of drugs in the treatment of disease; while intolerable sufferings and broken constitutions have importatively demanded "Reform." A return from a wide and fatal departure from the simplicity of Nature's laws is called for, alike by a rational love of happiness and the deplorable exigencies of our condition. Hydropathy, or a scientific use of water as a restorative and curative agent, is a practical substitution of a simple and remarksly efficacious mode of curing the sick; for that system of drugging, depleting, and cauterising, which, in obtaining the mastery over disease, too frequently places the patient beyond the reach of further annoyance. The success of the various Water Cure establishments in this country, to say nothing of any other, has fully confirmed the lopes of the early discoverers and promulgators of the great truths upon which the system is founded, and renders verbal communications unnecessary. It is deemed sufficient to say, that the "Cold Spring Water Cure" will compare favorably with any of the well-conducted establishments of a similar character, and will be found equal to the best, as regards the order, convenience, and destrableness of its arrangements. The institution is now open for the reception of patients, and in full operation.
